

SuperTrapp Mufflers

The patented radial diffuser design of SuperTrapp mufflers allows you to tune your muffler by adding or removing diffuser discs. Fewer discs reduces noise but increases back pressure; more discs increases noise and reduces back pressure. You can virtually wave tune your exhaust to produce the best power band for any track. This is especially important in racing classes where carb tuning is restricted.

For many small-displacement full race applications, the short diffuser is enough to meet noise limits. When noise limits are particularly stringent and for street applications, the diffuser section is combined with a low-restriction, straight-through glasspack section to further reduce sound. With the combined good looks and added durability of a stainless steel core, a SuperTrapp muffler could be the last muffler you ever buy.

What size SuperTrapp muffler should I get?

- Larger and longer glasspack SuperTrapp mufflers are generally quieter than smaller, shorter ones. For the most noise reduction, choose the largest muffler that will fit.
- 4" disc mufflers can handle up to 250HP per muffler. 5" can handle 400HP.
- Higher HP applications can use multiple mufflers, but noise will increase.

Diffuser Disc Only Series

To mount these to your exhaust system, just weld the flange to your tail pipe and then bolt the discs and end cap to the flange. All include 12 diffuser discs. The 5" models also include a 360 degree shield.

SuperTrapp 3S and 5S Series Spark Arrestor Mufflers for Small Engines

These compact units are ideal for ATVs, dirt bikes, even generators. They are certified USDA Forest Service-approved spark arrestors. Each flange includes an end cap but no discs. If further noise reduction is required, you can add a Resonator to the 5S Series.

3S Series Spark Arrestor Mufflers

The 3S Series is recommended for engines from 2 HP to 10 HP. Use 1 disc for every 3 HP (generators and other engines running less than 2400 RPM should use 2 discs per 3 HP).
